

NAZI AERIAL DRIVE TAKES HEAVY TOLL

Civilians Are Killed, Houses Fall

Attack Only a 'Puny' Example of What Hitler Has in Store for British

Ships Sunk

English Say the Raid Cost the Germans 20 War Planes

(By The Associated Press)

London, July 30.—German war-planes struck punishing new blows on Britain's coast today, taking an undisclosed toll of civilian life with air attacks that continued through night and day.

Heaviest hit were towns on the east coast, above and below the mouth of the Thames.

A lone Nazi raider, dumping his heavy bombs in several salvos on a congested working class district, killed several persons, one of them an infant, in a southeast town.

Several others were injured, some buried under the debris of shattered buildings.

The bombs burst on houses along a narrow street, destroying four on one side and three on the other.

In another raid on an east Anglian town, on the coast northeast of London, the ministry of home security said, "some damage was done to property and there were some casualties, a proportion of which were fatal."

While the British admiralty was announcing that Germany had sunk 35,577 tons of the empire's shipping in the week ending July 21, the German high command maintained that much damage done in the Dover fight alone.

Nazi dive bombers, the high command said, virtually destroyed four ships, totalling 32,000 tons in the Dover attack.

It also said German airmen sank a 10,000-ton cruiser in the English channel, as well as a small merchant vessel.

England claimed that yesterday's air attacks cost the Germans 20 planes, 17 of them in the Dover battle where 80 Nazis bombers and fighters were fought off by R. A. F. men. Loss of one British plane was acknowledged.

Germany, on the other hand, claimed 15 British planes were shot down and only three German craft were lost.

The British also acknowledged that three soldiers were killed in an explosion yesterday at Gibraltar, but said the cause was not known.

German press said the swelling storm of air attacks is only a "puny" sample of what Adolf Hitler has in store, but already has taken a tremendous toll of British shipping.

With other American nations lined up solidly for all three of the United States' economic, military and anti-fifth column proposals, before the Pan American conference in Havana, Argentina bore a loop-hole in the most important.

The Argentine delegation disclosed last night, on the eve of formal signing, that their approval of a broadened Monroe Doctrine clause providing trusteeship over endangered European possessions in the western hemisphere was subject to ratification by their government. The conference ends today.

Air Raids Resumed
After dark yesterday the air raids were resumed. The British government admitted some property damage resulted and said one raiding bomber was shot down early this morning.

The Berlin newspaper Dorsen Zeitung said that although the raids so far had only "softened" the English defense system for the big blow, bombs and torpedoes cost the British 257,000 tons of shipping in the weekend of July 27.

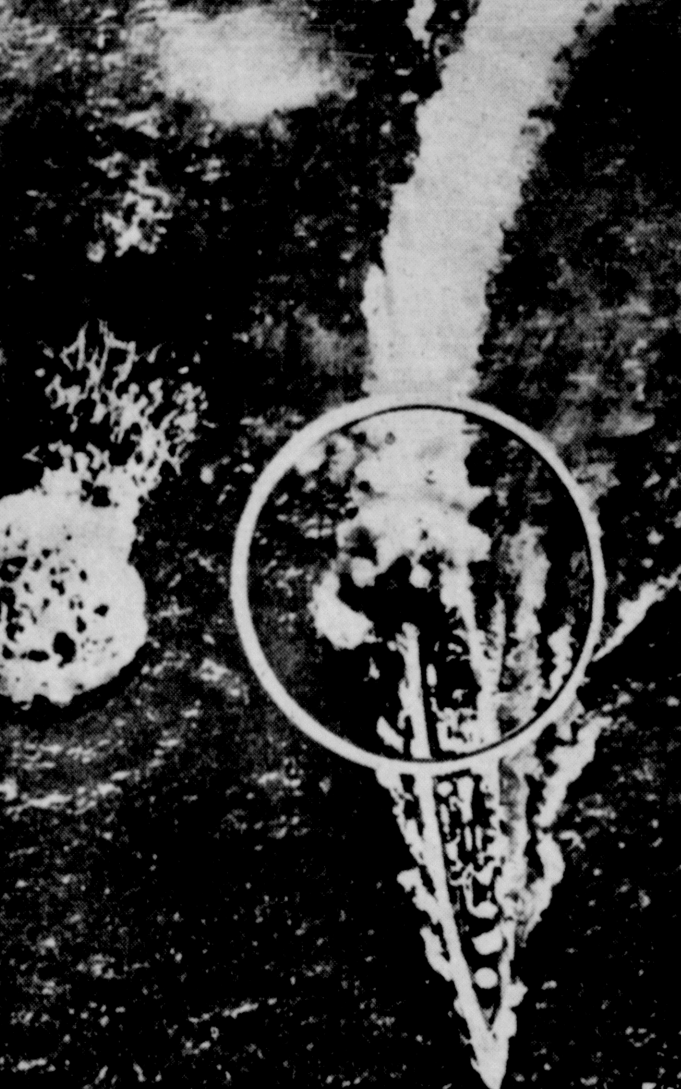

Britain was expected in London to tighten her own blockade against supplies possibly reaching Germany with intensified contraband control over all ships bound for Europe and certain North African ports.

It was believed Minister of Economic Warfare Hugh Dalton would give the House of Commons a statement on this subject today before the legislators began a secret debate on foreign affairs.

Authoritative sources reported last night at Bucharest that Rumania, willing to effect a quick compromise with her neighbors on their territorial demands, has been given just seven weeks to negotiate a settlement.

Adolf Hitler was said to have told Rumania that Germany would solve the territorial problem.

Movement to Modify The Conscription Bill

Measure Too Far-Reaching, Says Sen. Byrnes; Calls All Men From 18 to 64

(By The Associated Press)

Washington, July 30.—A movement to modify the Burke-Wadsworth conscription bill gained strength today through compromise proposals offered by Senator Byrnes (D., S. C.) and Chairman May (D., Ky.) of the House military committee.

Byrnes, an administration lieutenant, said he considered the measure too far-reaching, but emphasized that he had not discussed it with President Roosevelt.

The bill up for final approval today by the Senate military committee, would call for registration of all men between 18 and 64, with those between 21 and 45 subject to a selective draft and subsequent military training.

Byrnes, however, said he favored limiting registration mainly to those who might logically be called for immediate army and navy service.

As the House military committee resumed hearings on the subject, Representative May told reporters that since estimates indicated the conscription program would cost $100,000,000, he was looking for places to reduce it. This probably could be done, he said, lowering the top age limit of the men who might be called into service.

"I don't quite see the object of laying open to the draft every man up to 45," May said. "That is

Homemaking Department Ladies Preparing Exhibits for County Fair

The annual Ulster County Fair, which is to be held on August 21 at Forsyth Park, is less than a month away. This leaves just enough time for those interested in the competitive exhibits of the Homemaking Department to prepare their entries in such a manner as to "top" last year's showing which was considered one of the finest ever in the county.

The homemaking department consists of foods, furniture and furnishings, clothing, crafts and hobbies.

For homemakers who are adept, there is a sweepstake prize of $10 offered for the largest number of prize points provided contestants win a prize in at least three of the four sections.

As an added attraction this year the homemaking will have a chance to exhibit her well tested "Ideas and Ideals" by exhibiting her contribution to better homemaking. It may be a collection of homemade games or toys; kitchen gadgets; a week's menu for the family showing saving of time; fuel and money; a plan of daily work for an average month in the showing best use of home produced, home preserved foods; play materials for the convalescent child; collection of stories for reading aloud to the family or any other idea she has found practicable. Prizes will be first $10; second $5; third $3. Whatever may be the idea it must be exhibited in some way. Charts, illustrations, etc., may be used. Entries and space for "Ideas and Ideals" must be made not later than noon on August 12. All other entries must be made not later than August 14.

An entry fee of 10 per cent of the first premium must accompany the entry. Entry blanks and premium lists can be secured from the Home Bureau office, 280 Wall street, in the basement of the Ulster County Savings Bank.

Showers Bring Slight Relief; Death Toll 765

Forecast Indicates That Lower Temperatures Are in the Offing for New York State; Genesee Cloudburst

(By The Associated Press)

Thundershowers brought a measure of relief to some parts of the parched nation today but for most of the country the day was just another lap in the heat marathon.

As the mercury again climbed toward the nineties, the number of deaths from the season's most prolonged heat wave increased to 765. Heat deaths numbered 382, drownings 383.

Illinois reported 74 deaths attributed to heat prostration, most of them in Chicago.

Weather observers reported a "rather slight" cool air mass moving eastward from North Dakota and Minnesota but it was not expected to afford much relief beyond northern Illinois and Indiana.

Showers brought temporary respite in the lake region and at scattered points in the Atlantic and Gulf states, the Appalachian district and the upper Ohio valley. Torrential rains in the foothills west of Fountain, Colo., caused extensive damage to crops, washed out railroad tracks and delayed automobile traffic between Colorado Springs and Pueblo.

Late afternoon showers yesterday provided overnight relief for Washington, D. C., where nine deaths were reported in a 24-hour period.

Showers for the second consecutive day brought a 10 degree drop in Virginia temperatures. Rain promised to further alleviate the heat in New York city, where the torrid weather moderated somewhat last night.

Temperatures in the nineties prevailed over most of the continent east of the Rockies yesterday. It was 103 at Laredo, Tex., on the Rio Grande, and 102 at Burley, Idaho; 100.5 in Lancaster, Pa., and 104 in Waynoka, Okla.

Albany, N. Y., July 30 (AP)—New York mopped its collective brow a 12th straight day today and looked hopefully, yet skeptically, toward the weather man.

Counting a total of 38 heat deaths—26 drownings, five from lightning, seven from heart attacks, it found little relief after heavy thunder, rain and windstorms, but forecasts indicated lower temperatures in the offing.

Midnight readings showed 72 at Albany, which had a high yesterday of 92; 75 at Jamestown, whose maximum was 93; 79 at Syracuse, where the top was 95 and low, 65; 78 at Rochester, a drop from 93, and 80 at Buffalo, where it had been 85 downtown and 91 at the airport. New York city's midnight figure was 79.

Hornell recorded its hottest day this year—95 in the shade—but found some relief in an afternoon shower.

The weather was more violent elsewhere.

The Genesee valley in the Mt. Morris area experienced a miniature cloudburst with high wind flattening ripened wheat and oats. Lightning struck several trees.

Seventeen persons were driven to the street and one fireman, Patrick Rogers, overcome when fire believed to have been caused by lightning destroyed a three-story former (Collins) hotel building in Watervliet.

Lightning hit several structures in Albany. Schenectady, Rotterdam and Cohoes under two severe capital district thunderstorms. Some Albany streets were flooded deeply and pressure blew storm sewer manholes high. Hundreds of automobiles were stalled in flooded thoroughfares.

Stiff wind unroofed the home of George Chesbro on the Meadowdale-Guilderland Center road, also flattening the barn and uprooting 14 60-foot pine trees. Chesbro rescued his invalid mother from the house amid the storm.

Early-evening darkness slowed traffic and caused motorists to use headlights. State Police wires and various telephone lines suffered. Syracuse, which also had two storms, reported minor damage to power lines and trees.

City Bid for Air Instruction Help Meets With Delay
Kingston's effort at obtaining assistance from the Civil Aeronautics Authority for non-college flight instruction courses stands today without any immediate encouragement, according to Raymond W. Garraghan, chairman of the aviation committee of the Kingston Industrial Bureau.

Mr. Garraghan recently wrote to the Civil Aeronautics Authority to learn that the non-college units for the state of New York have been distributed. It was pointed out in the letter, however, that if certain improvements are made at the local airport, there is further chance of recognition by the authority.

Flight instruction programs such as that which Mr. Garraghan attempted to obtain for Kingston will be sponsored by the authority this fall in Walden and Poughkeepsie.

Mr. Garraghan explained that to further the local plan he requested engineers of the authority to advise the local committee as to required qualifications of the local airport. He pointed out also that in the meantime a test of public opinion on the matter might be made and impetus added to the move through local public officials.

Serving on the committee with Mr. Garraghan are William Kingman and Pratt Boice.

The letter received by Mr. Garraghan in answer to his recent inquiry follows:

Condemnation Award Confirmed by Bergan

Court Also Refers Back to Commission Claim and Award in the Case of Gormley

Holding that the power of the court to revise the report of a condemnation commission is "very limited" Justice Francis Bergan has confirmed the award of $4,750 made by Commissioners Emil A. Guenther, Peter G. Myers and George F. Humphrey to Filomena Marcos in the seventh separate report of the commission which was filed last March and moved for confirmation at the May special term.

The court also refers back to the commission the claim and award amounting to $1,850 for damages and $900 for trespass in the case of Eugene Gormley, Parcel 17, which is the farm and mill property west of Phoenicia. Several other awards are confirmed.

Holding that the court has little power to review the report of a commission or set aside an award unless the award is such as would "shock the sense of justice" Justice Bergan holds that the power of reviews is "confined within narrow limits."

Henry Ford Is 77 Years Old Today; Predicts Bright Future; Sees No War

Detroit, July 30 (AP)—Henry Ford reached his 77th birthday anniversary today, at peace with himself and with the world, in excellent physical condition and more optimistic than ever about the future.

"I was never more confident," he said in an interview, "than I am today that the future will bring happiness, contentment and prosperity to our people."

The noted industrialist whose philosophy of life centers largely upon the idea that "there never has been produced too much of any useful commodity," planned no formal celebration of his birthday. Excepting for a visit to the house in which he was born—a few minutes drive from his offices in suburban Dearborn—he planned to follow his usual routine while completing arrangements to leave for his summer vacation.

"When you get to be 77 years old," Ford said today, "you're more or less used to birthdays; the years themselves don't count anyway; it's what you have done with them that adds up to success or failure."

Ford repeated his conviction that the United States would not be drawn into the war "despite tremendous pressure on the part of certain selfish interests that would like to see all our enormous resources devoted to the production of the machinery of destruction."

No War, He Says
"The United States won't get into this war," he went on, "because our people know from experience that only a limited few with financial investments involved ever profit from war."

The extent of the prosperity he sees ahead, Ford said, "depends, of course, upon our youth and what we teach them. We must teach them to work and to be self-reliant."

"Show me a boy who wants to fix the family washing machine when it breaks down, and I'll show you a successful man in the making."

2nd Victim In Creek at Rosendale

Thomas F. Coffey, 18, of Flushing Loses Life in Rosendale While Fishing

Boating Fatality

Kenneth Herlihy, 21, Drowns in Wallkill When Boat Tips Over

The Rondout creek near Rosendale claimed its second victim in three days Monday afternoon when Thomas F. Coffey, Jr., 18 years old, of 4346 163rd street, Flushing, L. I., was accidentally drowned in a deep hole near LeFever Falls while fishing.

This afternoon, Kenneth Herlihy, 21, of 5209 Sixth avenue, Brooklyn, became the third person to lose his life by drowning when he fell into the Wallkill river at Bradley Beach, on the Mud Hook road, as his rowboat tipped. Herlihy had arrived from Brooklyn this morning to begin his vacation in this locality.

Coffey was spending the summer vacation season with his mother, grandmother and three other children of the family at a bungalow of John J. Duffy at LeFever Falls. It was his custom to spend considerable time fishing in the creek.

Monday afternoon he went fishing along the bank and apparently slipped from a rock into the water. He was not a strong swimmer and it is believed he was carried to deep water and unable to regain the bank drowned. The body was recovered after an all night search in a deep hole not far from where his shirt was found, by John J. Duffy, Jr., and Joseph Van Beckhoven of Maple Hill who had been making a search along the creek. The two young men had patrolled the creek, diving in deep holes after the shirt, shoes and socks of the victim had been found. When the body had been recovered by the divers and brought to shore the Central Hudson emergency truck was summoned, the sheriff's office was called and Deputy Sheriff Charles McCullough responded. Coroner Jesse McHugh of Wallkill was summoned.

Nothing was thought when the lad did not return at the usual hour Monday afternoon because of the severe storm and his folks believed he had sought shelter in some home until the storm had passed. Later in the evening when he failed to return state police were notified of the fact that he was missing and a search was started by neighbors.

The lad had been attired in a swimming suit when he left home but he was not a swimmer and it is believed that when he slipped from a rock while fishing or may have waded in supposedly shallow water to gain relief from the heat and stepped into a deep hole. At the point where the body was recovered there was about 30 feet of water.

Coffey was last seen standing on a rock at LeFever Falls fishing and it was some distance downstream where the body was recovered.

Saturday evening Richard Bladegroen of Tillsen, 9 years old, was drowned below Rosendale when he slipped from the back of his sister as she attempted to swim across the creek with the Death by drowning suddenly ended the vacation trip of Kenneth Herlihy, 21, of 5209 Sixth avenue, Brooklyn, who lost his life today when the rowboat he was in tipped over in the Wallkill river at Bradley Beach. The body was recovered later by Harry Johnston and Henry Winkelman, employees of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation, who grappled for it from a rowboat.

Herlihy had just arrived this morning to spend his vacation with Mrs. J. Lakeman of Route 2, New Paltz. He was accompanied on his trip to Ulster county by Robert Gess, 18, Eugene Burke, 18, and Arthur Scallise, 19, all of Brooklyn.

The youths decided to go out boating on the river shortly after they had arrived at the Lakeman home. Herlihy started out alone in one boat while the three other youths were in another boat.

Suddenly the boat Herlihy was in capsized and he was hurled

Justice Murray's Decision Hits Defendants' Methods

Jurist Likens Case to That of Story of Moses, Son of Wakefield Vicar

The following is the memorandum of Supreme Court Justice William H. Murray in the case of Randolph H. Winston of Saugerties, who sued for himself and on behalf of all other stockholders of Saugerties Farms, Inc., against Saugerties Farms, Inc., as represented by Elliott B. Smoak and Anna V. Smoak:

Memorandum

"The genesis of this lawsuit happened on a spring day in April or May, 1939, when the defendant, Elliott B. Smoak, came uninvited to the Winston farm in Saugerties, Ulster county, New York. The purpose of the visit of Smoak was ostensibly to sell the milk of some Guernsey cows which he had on a farm in East Jewett, Greene county, N. Y.

The record shows that as a salesman of milk Smoak was not a success, but as a promoter, he ranks high, because not later than June 26, 1939 he obtained, together with his wife, paper title to not less than half of the Winston farm and not less than one-half of the livestock and personal property with little or no cash outlay on his part whatever. The simplicity and the credulousness of Randolph H. Winston, the owner of Winston farms, in parting with half of his possessions and ousting himself of control of his property for practically nothing is only matched but not surpassed by the story of Moses, the son of the Vicar of Wakefield, who when imposed upon by a prowling man invested the proceeds of the sale of a good horse in a gross of green spectacles of copper rims and shagreen cases. Truth is often stranger than fiction, as this action reveals.

Winston Was Owner

It appears from the testimony that in June, 1939, Randolph H. Winston was the owner of a farm of approximately nine hundred fifty (950) acres, half of which was good tillable and pasture land. That there were (8) dwelling houses on it, besides a thirty (30) room house and seven (7) large barns and additional houses and a gravity system of water which supplied all of the buildings on the farm. Winston operated the farm in the dairy and dairy business selling certified milk. The farm was fully equipped with all necessary farm machinery and tools. It also had on it all the required dairy equipment for the dairy business; such as trucks, refrigerators, cooling machines and all the other paraphernalia needed. Winston owned a herd of seventy-one (71) registered prize champion Guernsey cattle. He had and possessed an active going milk business or route supplying customers in Saugerties, New York and Kingston, N. Y. He is a young man, thirty-two (32) years of age, and had no prior business experience before he assumed management of the farm and went into the milk business. In 1939, he started with five (5) customers, and the record shows that he increased his customers from five (5) to two hundred thirty (230), and from the sale of twenty-five (25) quarts of milk to three hundred fifty (350) to four hundred (400) quarts daily. Winston testified on the trial of this action. The defendant Elliott B. Smoak, did not.

No Dispute

There is little or no dispute as to the facts. Smoak told Winston that he was the owner of twenty-two (22) head of Guernsey cattle, and he suggested to Winston that his farm should be incorporated and be called the Saugerties Farms, Incorporated, and he further declared: "That the farm was a gold mine. That by bringing his cattle down there he was going to build up the business so that inside of ten (10) months we would be selling eight hundred (800) to one thousand (1,000) quarts of milk. That he would take all the responsibility Winston wanted him to take. That he was going to make money hand over fist. That we would make between ten thousand ($10,000.00) and fifteen thousand ($15,000.00) dollars a year, and we were going into the cream and cheese business and buttermilk business, the chocolate milk business and every all the dairy products and just make the thing go like a house afire."

The Court must assume that Smoak in his desire to make Winston and himself rich men did utter and use such extravagant, glittering and seductive phrases and language, for there is no denial by him that he did so speak. This is an equity action, and the obligation is placed upon the Court to see to it that both plaintiff and defendants receive equal and exact justice as the situation demands.

Was Mortgaged

Winston's farm was mortgaged and also the cows and certain of the personal property on the farm. He was engaged in the most confining type of occupations. He was married and his wife in poor health. His ready cash was not plentiful. He was in debt. He needed money to pay for milk bottles and most generously Smoak advanced him two hundred ($200.00) dollars to pay for the bottles. In this situation Winston was extremely susceptible to embrace the rosy picture of the future as depicted and painted by Smoak. His mind was very fertile soil for the lodgment of dreams of wealth and of at least partial deliverance and respite from the grim and relentless realities of his daily grind of the dairy business. The words of Smoak were like a flash of lightning to one who travelled in the darkness, revealing the way before him, the perils and obstacles, making all difficulties clear and riches at the end of the rainbow. There is no other reason why Winston, without consulting any lawyer or any other person, so readily and so eagerly adopted the suggestions of Smoak. There is no doubt in the mind of this court that Winston was cajoled by the blandishments of Smoak. To reason otherwise would be the negation of common sense.

Not Like Farmer

The technique followed by Smoak is not the thought or conduct of a mere farmer. It was his suggestion and his use of the corporate device to operate a farm which discloses that Smoak had as much, if not more, knowledge of financial matters than ability to make cream cheese, chocolate milk and other dairy products.

Agreement Signed

Smoak and Winston signed an agreement. It is annexed to the complaint and marked Exhibit "A". It is dated June 1st, 1939, and was prepared by a lawyer hired by Smoak. It contains many whereas, but boiled down it is an agreement between Winston and Smoak to form a corporation to be called Saugerties Farms, Incorporated, to which corporation Winston agreed to transfer all of the real estate of the Winston farm and all personal property in connection therewith and seventy-one (71) head of cattle, also the milk business and the milk license granted to Winston by the State of New York subject to the mortgages thereon and after June 1st, 1939 the corporation would assume the payment of these obligations, also the taxes, insurance, fire and liability covering the buildings, equipment and trucks. Winston to pay personally debts due prior to June 1st, 1939, and he to have for himself all accounts receivable for merchandise sold prior to June 1st, 1939.

After the corporation should be formed, Smoak was to have the entire management of it. However, he was only required to devote such sufficient personal services thereto that same should be conducted in an "efficient" manner not to engage in the operation of any other business which would require his personal services away from the farm. Winston was to be elected President and Smoak, secretary and treasurer, and a weekly salary to be paid Winston of Twenty-five (25) dollars per week—then there should be paid taxes, insurance and interest from the receipts. That Smoak would rent his stock to the corporation, and from the next moneys Smoak should be paid money in equal amount to the salary paid Winston, the payments made for principal and interest upon the mortgage and the taxes and insurance as and for the rental of the cows and personal services of Smoak. Then the net profits to be equally divided between Smoak and Winston as additional salary for personal services.

Equal Share

It was further mutually agreed that Smoak and Winston should each have an equal amount of the corporation stock upon its formation, namely, one hundred (100) shares each of the par value of one hundred ($100.00) dollars. The corporation was duly organized. Winston turned over to it all his property, lock, stock and barrel. He conveyed to the corporation his real estate by deed and his personal property by appropriate instruments. He waived notice of the meetings and signed the dotted lines as docilely as a child. Three (3) directors were elected, Elliott B. Smoak, Anna V. Smoak and Randolph H. Winston. Smoak journeyed to East Jewett, and brought down his twenty-two (22) head of cattle together with his wife, and all took up residence upon the farm. The terms of the agreement as to the issuance of the stock were not fulfilled. There was issued eight (80) shares of the capital stock to Randolph H. Winston and twenty (20) shares of the stock to his wife, Gladys R. Winston. There was issued eighty (80) shares of the stock to Elliott B. Smoak and twenty (20) shares to his wife, Anna V. Smoak. It is alleged by plaintiff that the stock so issued to the Smoaks was in violation of Section 69 of the Stock Corporation Law of the State of New York which declares that:

"No corporation shall issue either shares of stock or bonds except for money, labor done or property actually received for the use and lawful purpose of such corporation."

Plaintiff demands judgment that defendant Elliott B. Smoak and Anna V. Smoak deliver and surrender to Saugerties Farms, Incorporated for cancellation the shares of stock issued to them upon the ground that the shares were issued without consideration and in violation of Section 69 of the Stock Corporation Law.

Neither Smoak nor his wife paid any money to the corporation for the stock. Neither of them conveyed or transferred any property to the corporation nor performed any labor for the corporation in payment of the shares of stock. There is no dispute about this fact whatever. The record is barren of any testimony that Smoak or his wife did anything in the line of work about the farm unusual in character, except it is significant to note that without the knowledge or consent of plaintiff the two (2) Smoaks, acting as directors, conveyed by deed one hundred (100) shares of the farm for four thousand five hundred ($4,500.00) dollars. There is no statement before the court which shows exactly what disposition was made of this money. With reference to the twenty-two (22) head of cattle brought by testimony is that but seven (7) were available to be milked upon arrival. There were two (2) bulls and ten (10) heifers and some calves. This stock was fed by the corporation and taken care of by the regular employees or farm hands of Winston's.

Services Not Unique

There is no testimony in the record that the services or ability of Elliott B. Smoak were unique or of any higher value or grade than any other farmer engaged in the dairy business. Upon the facts there exists no valid reason why Elliott B. Smoak and his wife, Anna V. Smoak, should have title to one-half of the Winston farm and one-half of the personal property and equipment of the Winston farm. While it is true there is no claim of fraud made by plaintiff, nevertheless, the conscience of the Court is shocked at such a division of the property upon the basis of the agreement and the facts shown by the record. Smoak can take his cows, his wife and himself away from the Winston farm whenever it pleases him. Upon the law the plaintiff is entitled to the judgment he asks. Barnes v. Brown, 80 N. Y. 527, at page 534.

The law is mandatory that no corporation shall issue stock except for money, labor done or property actually received for the use and lawful purposes of such corporation. No language could be clearer or more definite and precise. It is the policy of this state to require all corporations to be organized honestly, with a bona fide capital stock to be issued only for cash, labor or property, and thus, provide the necessary means for carrying out the purposes of their creation, and thereby prevent frauds upon creditors and the public.

None of the shares of stock issued to Elliott B. Smoak and Anna V. Smoak have been transferred to any other person. "Service rendered in bringing a corporation into existence is neither cash nor property. If it were then the entire capital stock could be thus disposed of and the only asset which the corporation would have would be its naked existence."

Herbert v. Duryea, 34 App. Div. 478; aff'd. 164 N. Y. 596.

Neither stock nor property of a corporation may be issued or paid out to a promoter for services in organizing a corporation. (Ludlum v. Riverhead Bond & Mortgage Corporation, 244 App. Div. 113).

The law is settled and established beyond debate that shares of stock issued against the prohibition contained in Section 69 of the Stock Corporation Law can be cancelled upon the theory that such stock is voidable at the election of the stockholders.

Defendants' Claim

The defendants claim that plaintiff is estopped to bring this action by his own acts and conduct. Estoppel is a special plea in bar which happens where a man has done some act or executed some deed which precludes him from averring anything to the contrary. There is, however, a very important requisite which a party who invokes the doctrine of estoppel must establish primarily, and it is that he who invokes it must have acted in good faith. This Court holds that the record affirmatively shows that Smoak did not act in good faith either as a matter of fact or as a matter of law. There is a more compelling reason, however, why plaintiff is not estopped to reclaim that which was his own property, because it is the established law that where there is an entire lack of power to do the act in question it cannot be made good by estoppel. (Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Corey, 135 N. Y. 326). Here the statute, Section 69, absolutely forbids the issuance of stock or bonds unless they are paid for in cash, labor or services. Public policy and the safety of investors demand that Section 69 of the Stock Corporation Law be strictly construed. To hold otherwise would be to open the door wide to let loose a flood of fictitious "capital" stock upon unsuspecting investors, and the value of the assets of the corporation would be diluted. Any other construction of the statute would lead to consequences of the most serious character. The purpose of the law is to prevent reckless and unscrupulous speculators from fraudulently issuing and putting on the market stocks or bonds that do not and are not intended to represent money or property of any kind. The stock or bonds in such case being entirely fictitious.

The law on estoppel as quoted by Justice Hasbrouck in the action of Troy Union Railroad Co. v. City of Troy, 132 Misc. 534 at page 546 that:

"Estoppel, though not favored in its use, constitutes a valuable remedy for the promotion of justice. On the contrary, its use should not be suffered to accomplish a wrong. To make a party whole, it is useful; to secure an undue advantage forbidden. (Wormser v. Rubinstein, 89 Misc. 388.)"

Exactly fits the situation in the case at bar.

This Court refuses to give judicial sanction and approval to the wrongful acts of the directors of Saugerties Farms, Incorporated in issuing one (100) hundred shares of the capital stock contrary to the law, and to sustain such action by the application of the principle of estoppel would be to legalize a wrong.

Judgment for plaintiff. Submit order. Dated: Troy, New York, July 28th, 1940.

Indented by a thousand coves, the coast line of Nova Scotia naturally encouraged the development of small fishing villages. From Digby, down to Yarmouth, at the tip of the peninsula, back up on the other side to Halifax, the well-paved highways No. 1 and No. 3 lead through the charming, marine hamlets, one more quaint than another.

Chemung Boy Is Forestry Winner

Ithaca, N. Y., Aug. 1.—A Chemung county 4-H club boy who learned to identify 49 different native trees won first prize on his forestry collection book in the contest sponsored annually by the Empire State forest products association of Albany. He is Walter T. Scudder of Erin, whose entry earned ninety-four and one-half out of a possible 101 points. To give him the $10 award. Forty-two books were entered in the contest.

Ellen Marie Schichtel of Orchard Park, Erie county, took second place with the 45 tree specimens in her book netting 87 out of a possible 95 points. Her award will be a subscription to a forestry magazine. Last year Elmer Sharp of nearby Hamburg won the contest with 63 tree samples.

Third place was also taken by a western New York club member, Burnell Sprague of Falconer, whose collection from 39 different wood lot trees earned 81 out of 85 points. His prize is a forestry book. His brother, Merlin, won the 1937 contest with a nearly perfect score. Four-H members from six western New York counties took all places from second to tenth inclusive, with 24 collections exhibited.

For Second Year Members

The contest is for second-year forestry club members, and is built around appreciation of the value of the woodlots to the community, a working knowledge of the uses of the native trees, and learning the identities of the various trees in the community.

Each club member is required to collect and mount in his book a specimen of the leaves of the winter twigs and buds, and of the fruits of at least 15 forest trees, and to write a 250 word story on local forests. The 42 club members who entered books in the contest had an average of more than 21 trees apiece, in the total of 896 specimens examined. Sugar maple was the most common tree and was shown by all but one club member. Beech was next with 38 samples, followed by butternut with 35, white ash 34, locust 33, and 30 each of white pine, hemlock and red oak. Not only is the wide distribution of these trees shown in their popularity, but it also gave the young folks an opportunity to gather the fruits, which are the most difficult specimens to obtain, says James O. Pond, assistant extension forester at Cornell.

Club members from Chautauque county with the guidance of club agent K. L. Combs of Jamestown, had the most books entered, with ten. Cattaraugus county, taught by former club agent Edward W. Cockram and present leader, Ernest J. Cole, had eight forestry books. Oswego county entered four.

Storm Damage Is Reported as Light; Temperature Down

Ellenville Has Blackout but Kingston Escapes Trouble; Mercury Drops 20 Degrees

Yesterday's intense heat turned the heavens into an evening electrical display which seemed to stay mostly in the upper air strata, but which brought with it sufficient rain to drop the mercury more than 20 degrees.

Damage in the region was reported slight this morning despite the fact that the storm displayed more lightning than seen here in many seasons.

Ellenville experienced a blackout for slightly less than two hours when its locally controlled electrical system was thrown out of commission, but the damage in Kingston and vicinity and throughout most of the rest of the county amounted to lesser inconveniences.

An official of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Company reported this morning that slight trouble was reported in scattered areas where fuses were blown, but in no instance was there a report of serious damage.

A similar report from the local office of the Telephone Company indicated that the service interruptions were of minor consequence. It was estimated this morning that possibly 50 telephones of the entire system were thrown temporarily out of service, but the trouble was such as to be easily and quickly repaired.

At Ellenville merchants lighted their stores by candlelight during the two-hour blackout and residents resorted to other similar means of lighting their homes until the utility company restored its service.

Damage to the Ellenville system, insofar as could be determined this morning, was due to a burned out transformer. The police there reported no accidents or any other trouble as a result of the lack of light.

Records at the City Engineer's office in Kingston showed a precipitation of .59 of an inch of rain. At 1:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon the thermometer there registered 97 degrees in the shade. This dropped to 83 at sunset and to 73 during the storm. The mercury stayed in the 70's throughout the remainder of the night.

The rainfall was reported at its heaviest between 8 and 9 o'clock, although the rain continued until about 11 o'clock.

Casual Slaughters

By VIRGINIA HANSON

YESTERDAY, Julia indignantly insists that Jeff would never harm Sandra. The morning after the party Ray finds Sandra murdered. Jeff is out under arrest.

Chapter 31 Evil Spirit

JULIA parked in front of her house, got out and took my overnight case from the open rumble seat.

"It wasn't Jeff," she said stubbornly, and led the way up the walk.

Mimi, looking pale and frightened, met us at the door.

"Thank Heaven you're here, Kay," she said fervently. "I wouldn't have had an easy moment with you alone over there. Something is terribly wrong on this spot. I don't know what it is, but I feel it—something like an evil spirit roaming about a house—something that doesn't belong here. An evil invasion—"

Julia was staring at her.

"Do you by any chance think these murders are supernatural?"

"Of course not, Julia. Don't be silly. What I mean is that we're all quiet, peace-loving people, we army people—"

"Contradiction in terms, old dear. But go on, I know what you mean."

"I haven't been part of it very long myself, I know," Mimi went on with dignity. "But it was one of the first things I noticed when I married your father. It's like I imagine the life must have been in these religious communities. The army lives to itself, too, has its own community of interest and little reason for contact with the outside world. We have our own inside quarrels, but aside from that we live together in comparative peace and harmony. This is like something that has crept in. You understand what I mean, don't you, Kay?"

"Yes, I understand."

I understood something else, too: that Sandra's death was particularly frightening because it had struck almost within the charmed circle. And because, say what she would, suspicion logically pointed to the few members of the garrison who had known Sandra well. What had the chaplain said? "Murder is an intimate thing."

I remembered, with a little chill, the way opinion had turned against me, the outsider, when murder had struck at Fort Havens. They banded together, these army people. They stood back to back when there was trouble; and it was too bad for the stranger within their gates.

After they had taken me to the guest room—the room Sandra had occupied until her marriage—and left me to make myself at home, I reviewed the strangers, realizing that, except for myself, there were only two—Gerald and Felicia. Could either of them be the creeping evil that Mimi had so chillingly suggested?

Gerald, when he had found himself in sole charge of a fainting female, had carried me into Felicia's room and brought me to with the good old-fashioned remedy of plenty of cold water, externally applied. I had recovered enough to tell him the trouble when an orderly, looking scared, put in an appearance. Gerald sent him for Felicia, who was somewhere in the kitchen regions in the opposite wing of the building.

They had looked after me, Felicia and Gerald; Gerald himself attending to the unpleasant business of making sure that Sandra was past help, then sending for the doctor and the commanding officer. I have said that it was late when I rose. The officers who lived in the building had gone to duty. There were only the three of us, the three outsiders, left with murder.

Felicia, when she heard the news, had looked as ghastly as I felt. Genuine horror is difficult to fake. Looking back on it now, I felt sure she had been unutterably shocked. But Gerald?

Gerald was no longer the posturing idiot. His eyes were cold and wary, his manner business-like. The clowning was a mask that he took off, and without it he seemed hard and ruthless. I was suddenly afraid of him.

"Like a Wax Model"

HE was in my room what seemed a long time before he went to telephone, but he came back to Felicia and me to wait for the doctor and Colonel Pennant.

"Odd that you heard nothing in the night," he said in the clipped, dispassionate accent that belonged to the strange, new manner. His eyes, revealing nothing, regarded me.

"But I did," I told him, surprised. "There was someone moving about in my sitting room. I thought it was Sandra."

"At what time?"

"I don't know. I had been asleep. I don't know how long. And I went to sleep again. I didn't think to look at my watch."

He stood up abruptly. There were voices in the corridor.

"Wait here—I'll be back."

After he had joined those men in the hall, Felicia opened the door a crack and applied herself frankly to peeping and eavesdropping.

"Jeff's here," she whispered once. "He looks like a wax model of himself. They've got the post photographer taking pictures. And later, 'They're taking her away. Oh, the poor kid! I heard Doc Jones say she's been dead at least eight hours.'"

Colonel Pennant came presently and took my pulse, said I was all right, but I still had for a while. Colonel Pennant came in, looking pretty grim, announced that Mimi would call me up and, with a glance at Felicia, that he would question me later, at his quarters.

I did not see Jeff, and I was glad.

After they had all departed Gerald came back and asked me if I felt well enough to go to my room. I got up shakily and followed him. I think Felicia would have liked to come, too, but something in Gerald's manner must have discouraged her, for she remained where she was.

There was an armed enlisted man in front of my door.

"Mimi," I said, "I don't get some of her things," Gerald told me. "Colonel Pennant said it would be all right."

I looked at him suspiciously. Colonel Pennant had said no such thing. But the enlisted man stepped aside and let us go in.

"Now," said Gerald, "I want you to look the place over carefully and tell me if there's anything missing. Anything at all—no matter how small."

I must have spent at least half an hour examining that room, going through the drawer of my worktable, looking through a stack of manuscripts and correspondence; but I couldn't see that there was anything gone, or even out of place, and I told him so.

OFFICE CAT

By JUNIUS

If we had more justice, there would be less need of charity.

It pays to spell:

Mrs. Lovewell—George, I have received a letter from mother saying she is not accepting our invitation to visit us, and saying we do not appear to want her. What does she mean by that? I asked you to write and tell her to come at her convenience. You wrote to her, didn't you?

George—Yes, but—er—I couldn't spell the word "convenience," so I made it "risk."

The United States postoffice department is issuing so many new kinds of stamps one cannot keep up with the changes but there isn't likely to be any protest so long as present prices remain the same.

If you like travel notes, read this:

Mrs. Newly Riche, back from a hop, skip, and jump tour of Europe, raved over the wonders of the Old World:

Mrs. Newly Riche—Yes, my dear, I had a grand time. Saw the big Liver picture gallery at dear old Paris, drove down the splendid Champion Ananias— you know, the famous driveway. We went all over France.

Friend—Presume you got a taste of bouillabaisse?

Mrs. Newly Riche—Indeed, no! French steaks are had enough without eating their sausage.

It is great to live in a country where the sky rains nothing but rain and maybe hail now and then. There are places where it rains bombs.

Friend—You have a nice collection of books, but you should have more shelves.

Man—I know, but nobody seems to loan me shelves.

If we judge others by ourselves we may not be wrong if we are good enough.

Mrs. Newsom (just introduced to an actor)—Oh, I suppose you actors hate boos more than anything else.

Actor—Well, madam, it all depends on how you spell it.

The newspaper that gets the "scoops" is a great paper:

That the passion for exclusive news stories is by no means confined to the newspapers of the large cities was illustrated, not long ago, by an editorial notice in a country paper in Iowa.

"We were the first journal in the state to announce on the 11th, the news of the destruction in Des Moines, by fire, the mammoth paint establishment of Jenkins & Brothers. We are now the first to inform our readers that the report was absolutely without foundation."

We have seen H2O worked out this way before:

Professor—What is the formula for water, Jones?

Jones (spelling out)—H-I-J-K-L-M-N-O.

Professor (barking)—What's that?

Jones (slowly)—H-I-J-K-L-M-N-O.

Professor—What are you driving at? What gave you that idea?

Jones—You, sir, you said yesterday it was H to O.

A philosopher says the dangerous period of a man's life commences at 16 and ends at 45.... He is wrong.... The dangerous age begins when a man learns to talk well enough to be understood and ends at the mortuary.

Counsel (to man charged with assault)—Then you admit you struck the plaintiff with malice aforethought?

Defendant (indignantly)—You can't mix me up like that. I've told you twice I hit him with a brick. There wasn't no malice no nothing of the kind about it—just a plain brick like any gentleman would use.

Some things gain value with age. A lot of valued antiques, for instance, could not have been much good in the time of them.

City to Arrange For Next Hearing On R.R. Crossings

Business Men May Send Delegations Next Week for Airing of Plan on Local Project

Kingston is expected to be represented at the public hearing on the grade crossing elimination project to be held Thursday morning, August 8, at 10:30 o'clock in the state office building in Albany, it was announced today.

Louis Weiner, president of the Uptown Business Men's Association, said this morning that the regular meeting of the association would be held on Thursday morning. At that time it was expected that some action would be taken toward having the association represented at the hearing.

Harry Kaplan, president of the Downtown Business Men's Association, said that the downtown association would cooperate with the other business associations, and that if they sent representatives to the hearing the downtown association would also be represented.

Harry B. Walker, president of the Central Business Men's Association, said that the association did not meet again until later in the year. Just what action it would take in the crossing elimination plan was not definitely known at this time.

It had not been expected that any further hearings would be held on the crossing elimination project until the public service commission announced recently that it planned to reopen the case.

At the last hearing the city submitted a plan with the commission calling for the elimination of all grade crossings of the West Shore railroad.

This plan was not opposed by the railroad, and only one property owner lodged an objection to the plan being adopted.

Falls Off Bicycle, Hurts Shoulder

Richard Davis, 13, Riding Past Car Is Hit by Door

Richard Davis, 13, of 70 Van Deusen street, suffered a shoulder injury when thrown from his bicycle on Clinton avenue in front of the Thomson Laundry at 12:20 o'clock this afternoon. He was taken to the office of Dr. Emil Goodyear on Pearl street, where his injury was dressed.

According to the report of Motorcycle Officer George P. Bowers, who investigated, the boy was riding his bicycle past the automobile driven by Mrs. Belle V. K. Walton of 177 Albany avenue. As the bicycle was passing the auto Mrs. Walton opened one of the car doors. The open door struck the boy, knocking him from the bicycle.

Driving behind the Walton car was another car driven by Harry Estenbenz of Stone Ridge. The latter car ran over the bicycle, but not the boy, who had rolled out of the way.

Steel Operations Are Due to Rise

Steel operations this week are scheduled for 90.4 per cent of capacity, the highest since December, 1939. This is a considerable rise over two weeks ago when the rate was 86.8 and a month ago when the rate of production was 74.2.

Consolidated Edison reports a consolidated net income of $7,308,630 for the second quarter. This is a quarter net of 42 cents against 44 cents shown in 1939 period. For the 12 months period ending June 30, net income amounted to $36,840,007, equivalent to $2.23 a share after a $300,000 reserve for the acquisition of new bonds or property, compared to a 12 month previous net income of $34,939,919.

Savage Arms yesterday declared a dividend of 50 cents on common payable August 19. A 25 cent payment was made May 20, 1940.

Phillips Petroleum Co., and subsidiaries report a net profit of $6,378,198 for six months ending June 30, after depletion, depreciation, etc. This is equal to $1.43 a share. Tilo Roofing Company, Inc., reports a profit of $185,970, or 38 cents a common share for the 28 weeks period ending July 13.

The rise in steel production injected new life in the market yesterday after a dull opening but the average for the market gained was only $0.27 points, and the volume was but 255,990 shares.

Had not steel come to the rescue trading apparently would have been almost nil since trading had been but 20,000 shares in the second hour before the steel production boost was announced.

Tide Water Associated Oil Co., had a net profit from operations of $5,904,865, after charges, including provision for federal income taxes, for the six months period ending June 30. After the $450 dividend requirement for preferred stock is provided for the net equals 75 cents on common shares. For a like period in 1939 the net profit was 19 cents a share.

General Mills fiscal year net equals $6.61 a common share as compared to a net of $7.69 in the preceding fiscal year.

New York, July 30 (AP)—Led by industrials, the stock market today took another step on the rallying ladder.

Quotations and volume were at the best in the forenoon. Gains running to 2 points or so were sliced after mid-day, and near the final hour, dealings slackened appreciably. At that, transfers were at the rate of about 425,000 shares, one of the largest turnovers for any July session.

As in yesterday's late forward reversal, brokers credited the better showing of the list partly to the belief of many that a "sold out" condition existed. Propping sentiment also, it was added, was hopefulness in Wall Street for British resistance to the Nazi onslaught, cheerful business signs here and there and persistence of a fair amount of political optimism.

Bonds were selectively higher and commodities fairly steady. Stocks well in front most of the time—some eventually slipped—were U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, Boeing, Anaconda, Westinghouse, du Pont, U. S. Gypsum, Western Union, Great Northern and N. Y. Central.

Attracting modest buying in the curb were Aluminum of America, Electric Bond & Share, Brewster Aero and International Petroleum.

Quotations by Morgan Davis & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, 15 Broad street, New York city, branch office, 48 Main street, R. B. Osterhoudt, manager.

The British embassy at Lisbon announced last night that the Duke of Windsor and his American-born duchess would sail for America Thursday on an American export liner, probably the Excalibur, en route to the duke's new post, as governor of the Bahamas.

In the Far East the Japanese drive against British business leaders allegedly implicated in an "espionage network" netted two more men. United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew conferred today with British Ambassador Sir Robert Leslie Craigie on the roundup, which has involved 13 men, one now dead.

Hold Secret Session

The British House of Commons held its sixth secret session of the war today as Nazi airmen carried on the bombing prelude of the long-expected invasion.

The secret session for the discussion of foreign affairs was devoted 200 to 109 after Hugh Dalton, minister of economic warfare, indicated the possibility of British-American cooperation on the general question of world supplies.

Dalton also disclosed that Britain was sending an agent to Spain this week-end to confer with Spanish officials on Spain's oil requirements—a move apparently designed to make certain no oil supplies reaching Spain are transhipped to Germany.

The minister denied reports of an extension of the British blockade to certain neutral countries, but explained that Britain now must control all shipping crossing the Atlantic.

He also offered this statement: "Our friends will be further encouraged and our enemies discouraged by some ingenious provisions which the minister of shipping will immediately announce."

In the House of Lords Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax declared Japan's allegations of British espionage in the Far East were baseless.

French Protest

Vichy, France, July 30 (AP)—The French government announced today that it had protested "energetically" to the British government over internment of Admirals Cayol and Villaine, commanders of French ships which were in English ports when the French-German armistice was signed last month.

The government also disclosed that it had demanded that the success the release of two French oil tankers which, it said, were being detained at Alexandria.

The protest against the internment of the French admirals was conveyed to the British government in a formal note. It asserted the officers had been taken into custody after their ships were taken over by British naval authorities.

Both men were said to be in an internment camp at Oxford, and to have been denied permission to communicate with French authorities.

German authorities, meanwhile, were reported to have relaxed restrictions on railway passenger traffic between the occupied and unoccupied zones in France to permit the passage of one train daily. This train, however, will be allowed to carry only members of government services and their families returning to Paris, it was said.

Refugees were allowed to travel by highway between the two zones, however, with the stipulation the gasoline tanks of their automobiles must be full when they cross the line of demarcation.

The newspaper Le Figaro reported Marshal Philippe Petain, chief of state in the new government, would receive members of different professions and representatives of various regions daily in order to "contact" the French people.

The newspaper said Petain would receive Rhone Valley peasant farmers tomorrow afternoon.

To Liberalize Benefits

Washington, July 30 (AP)—Amendments to liberalize unemployment benefits to workers under the 1938 railroad unemployment insurance act, have been approved by the Senate and are headed for the House. Senator Wagner (D-N.Y.), sponsor of the amendments, pointed out in debate yesterday that $130,000,000 had accumulated in reserves and argued that unemployed railroad workers now receive "pitifully inadequate" benefits—an average of $7 weekly. Senators Gurney (D-SD) and Reed (R-Kans.), on the other hand declared that accumulation of such a reserve called for a reduction in the 3 per cent payroll tax on railroads. They favored smaller increases than Wagner proposed.

The program will include several numbers written by Dr. Williams especially for the symphonic band, including a tone poem which he wrote a few years ago and dedicated to the Catskill region—"Rip Van Winkle." The program will be broadcast over Station WKNY from 8 until 9 p. m. The audience must arrive well in advance, since no one can be admitted while the concert is on the air. Admission is free.

Married at Marlborough

Marlborough, July 30.—In the Marlborough Presbyterian Church at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, Miss Edith Quimby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Quimby of Marlborough, became the bride of Ivan Allen Holland of Auburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Holland of Kings Ferry. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Claude McIntosh, minister, in the presence of more than 100 friends and relatives.

The bride was attired in a gown of white marquisette and wore a finger-tip length veil. She carried a bridal bouquet of lilies of the valley and roses.

Miss Margaret D. Quimby, who attended her sister as maid of honor, was gownned in blue marquisette and wore a floral wreath in her hair and pink accessories. Her flowers were pink roses, blue delphinium and gerbera.

Captain Carlyle Klise of Des Moines, Ia., attended Mr. Holland as best man. The ushers were John C. Quimby, brother of the bride, and Arthur T. Williams of Poughkeepsie, a cousin of the bride.

Bouquets of garden flowers were used in decoration about the church. The wedding marches and a program of appropriate organ selections were played by James Shurter, church organist. Mrs. Irene Winne Dodd of Skaneateles was the soloist. She was accompanied by Mrs. Harl Hockeborn.

A reception for 40 guests was held at the home after the ceremony, after which Mr. Holland and his bride left for a wedding trip. Upon return they will make their home in Auburn.

The bride was graduated from the Marlborough High School and the College of Fine Arts, Syracuse University. She has been supervisor of music in the Emily Howland Central school, Cayuga county, and outlying schools, the last four years.

Mr. Howland attended the University of Iowa and Auburn Business school.

Opera 'Maritana' Well Received

The opera, "Maritana," was presented by the Ernest Williams Band Camp, Pine Grove, Saugerties, Saturday evening to an enthusiastic audience, which filled the camp auditorium to capacity. The production was one of the best ever given in the camp. The gay and colorful costumes and the characterizations of the leads noticeably enchanted the audience.

Dr. Williams in his first role as operatic conductor in this region gave a splendid performance, carefully cueing every entrance and molding the orchestral accompaniment to the soloists and chorus.

The opera was produced under the direction of Cecile Jacobson. Leading roles were sung by Lorraine Johnston, soprano, and Robert Dike, tenor, both of whom

EMILY POST ADVISES PROSPECTIVE HOSTESS WHAT NOT TO WEAR TO RECEIVE GUESTS FOR LUNCH

Certainly Not a Long Silk Princess Dress Reaching to Floor, if That Describes a House Coat.

It is impossible for any one but a fashion specialist to guess what is meant by all the terms given to present day clothes. In fact, I think it must happen that even the fashion experts are at times put to it to correctly label the various house and hostess garments, the go-out, or stay-at-home dresses! In other words, I can only guess how to answer a question such as the following: "Is a silk house-coat proper to receive a few guests in at lunchtime?"

If by house-coat you mean a long princess dress reaching to the floor, then lunchtime is one hour at which this should not be worn. If made of cotton print, it would be all right for breakfast; if made of silk brocade, it would be all right for dinner, but it is out of the picture for lunch. If it suggests a negligee rather than a dress, then it should stay in your bedroom. If it is short and has pajamas under it, then perhaps it is worn only when at home alone, or on the other hand, it may be meant to wear for cocktail parties in the afternoon. In other words, I think you can judge its suitability by the appearance you produce when wearing it, better than I can.

Another Good Reason for Receiving at Church

Dear Mrs. Post: Must there also be a receiving line at the wedding reception if we stand at the back of the church and receive as people leave? We are giving the breakfast in a hotel and having no private dining room—just screens separating us from the rest of the public room. All the guests at the church are going to the breakfast, but I think it would be difficult to receive there.

Answer: Receiving in the church would be much less confusing as well as less conspicuous than attempting to receive in a public place—even though partially protected by screens.

The Collection Plate

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it incorrect for me to hand a girl friend money to put in the collection plate when she goes with me to my church?

Answer: She should be allowed to put her own money in the collection plate, and if she has no change, then what you yourself give would have to do for both.

Paying for an Accident

Dear Mrs. Post: My little Mary accidentally caused a neighbor's child to cut herself at play. The cut required stitches and the doctor required a doctor. I think the doctor's bill is a hardship to the other family, and I would like to pay it, but I'm afraid to offer because I might offend.

Answer: It should not offend the other mother if you would go to her and tell her how sorry you are, and say further that since the accident was your Mary's fault, you feel that the doctor's bill is at least your obligation. It would be much better to say this to the mother than to go between the doctor and the child's mother.

Learn Knack of Writing Friend-Winning Letters

Put Warmth Into Your Notes

Getting a letter from some girls is an event! Every page brims with personality, friendly warmth. No wonder such a girl is first to be asked for visits, house parties, fun.

Yet writing good letters isn't an inborn talent. It's a knack that everybody can learn. If you get bogged down at the start of a letter try this simple trick. Think what you'd say if you suddenly met the other person—then write it: "Dear Mary: What ages since we've had a good chat!"

And beware of giving a dull catalogue: "Sue had a shower. . . we went for a swim. . . I bought a new hat." Better to select one or two incidents, giving more of your thoughts and feelings. And let out your vocabulary. Water as heavenly swim! Water as blue—and yours truly as happy as a mermaid!"

Even in notes to old friends correct form counts. To sign yourself "Sincerely, Ann" is neither grammatical nor courteous. Always remember to add the "yours" to words like "sincerely," "fondly."

Make a delightful impression in social and business letters, too, with the help of the pointers in our 32-page booklet. Gives sample letters for many occasions, tips on vocabulary, English and correct form.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of GOOD LETTER-WRITING. MADE EASY to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 63 Sixth Ave., New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and NAME of booklet.

Old Fort for Roomers

Constructed in 1750

Leurenkill, July 29—One of the oldest homes in Ulster county is now a rooming house for summer visitors.

A field stone structure of typical Old Dutch architecture, the house is said to have been built about 1750 and was originally associated with the famed Bevier family of this area.

Situated on sloping ground about a half-mile southwest of the main road, one must cross a rustic bridge over a friendly stream to reach the historic structure, a section of which is shown here.

Dormer windows and wood siding at junction of gables and side walls are other characteristics which stamp the building as an example of the homes which in years long past were show places in this valley.

Steeped in legends of Indian raids, the home is said to have served as a fort for people living in smaller neighboring houses when the Redskins went on the war path.

Experts say the Leurenkill home is important because it represents the type of pre-Revolutionary era dwellings which were built entirely at one time, as contrasted with many which were characterized by sectional growth.

In the latter type, "growing scars" or different type sections in the stone side-walls marked addition of rooms after original building had been erected.

On Shawangunk Trail

Ellenville, July 29 — One of Ulster county's most beautiful scenic routes is the famed Shawangunk Trail which begins a steep ascent from Ellenville to reach its peak near the Cragmoor road.

Cut from sheer rock in some stretches, the highway offers breath-taking sights as one drives up the lofty Shawangunk mountain and watches Ellenville grow smaller at the flow of the Rondout Valley below.

Across the valley the majestic Catskills tower. Successive ridges in the distance grow progressively lighter blue in color until they resemble a painted backdrop on a fantastic stage.

Vicinity artists occasionally set up easels on wide road shoulders which have been provided for car parking at strategic intervals. And in this unvalued setting many delightful canvasses have been painted.

Rustic is the winding guard rail along the side of the road. Big pine spruces and other evergreen trees add interest along the route and contrast sharply, in their summer finery, with the reddish rock and clay along the side of the road.

As one reaches the top, the bustling village of Ellenville looks like a toy town with a few white church steeples rising above smaller buildings and a curl of smoke billowing here and there against the blue summer sky.

Blackbirds Join The Dunkers' Club

Use Bird Bath to Soften Hard Bread Before Eating

This is the season of the year for hot weather yarns and a resident of West Chestnut street steps forward with the following tale which he vouches as being absolutely true. It is the tale of two blackbirds that have joined the Dunkers' Club.

Here is the story: The resident said that for several weeks he has been watching the antics of a pair of blackbirds that evidently have a nest in the vicinity of his home. Daily it is his custom to break up stale bread and scatter it in the backyard for the benefit of the birds.

In the rear of the house the resident has a bird bath which he keeps filled with fresh water. About two weeks ago he noticed the blackbirds pick up large pieces of stale bread and fly away with it in their beaks to the bird bath.

Then perching on the edge of the bath the birds dunk the bread into the water until it is soft and spongy and then fly back to the ground and eat it with apparent relish.

Daily for several weeks the blackbirds have been dunking their bread, and the West Chestnut street resident believes that under all the circumstances they are fully qualified to become members of the Kingston branch of the Dunkers' Club.

Black Yankees Have Ace Pitchers for Wednesday's Game

Young's Hit Beats Reds For Giants; Dodgers and Bucs Fight; Tigers Lose

Rookie First Sacker Hits Double in Ninth to Clinch Game; Bucs Score 6 in Ninth

(By The Associated Press)

Baseball still is a bruising battle in Brooklyn and the Dodgers have only three clubs to go to accumulate a perfect record of at least one first fight with every team in the National League.

The latest flare-up involved Catcher Babe Phelps of the dauntless Dodgers and Shortstop Arky Vaughan of the once phlegmatic Pirates. It was in the final breathless moments of one of the whackiest ball games season spectators at Ebbets Field have ever seen.

For eight innings yesterday, Curt Davis held the Pirates helplessly with four scattered hits and the only excitement, aside from the steady tattoo of his teammates in thumping up a six-run lead, was the banishment of Manager Frank Frisch of the Pirates for protesting a play at second base in the sixth stanza. It was the sixth time this season he had been chased by an umpire.

But in the ninth the Pirates set a dynamite display under Davis, scoring six runs before Tot Pressnell could stop them. Then when the Dodgers came to bat, Phelps was thrown out at first and Vaughan hustled over to the bag, apparently to ask Elbie Fletcher, Pirate first baseman, if Phelps had tried to spike him. Whatever the answer, Vaughan and Phelps were waded into each other and were hard at it before teammates could intervene.

More Fistic Foes

Thus the Pirates lined up behind the St. Louis Cardinals, Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati Reds as fistic foes of the Dodgers this season.

Mace Brown nullified the fine comeback of the Pirates by issuing two warnings in the last half of the ninth and was charged with the loss.

This was the first game in which the Dodgers have had a fight and a victory and it enabled them to cut another notch off Cincinnati's apparently ample lead as the Reds dropped a 4-3 decision to the New York Giants.

The Reds gave Rookie Johnny Hutchings a 3-0 lead in the first five innings but he and three other Cincinnati pitchers couldn't hold it. Finally in the ninth inning Babe Young, who twice had bounced into double plays, slashed out a double to score Harry Danning from first base with the winning run.

Bob Bowman pitched seven-hit ball as the St. Louis Cardinals whipped the Boston Bees 8-3 and climbed back to fifth place. It was the 15th loss in 17 games for the Bees, who couldn't silence Johnny Mize. He hit a triple, a double and a single for half of the Cardinals runs.

Another seven-hit pitching performance was turned in by Claude Passeau of the Chicago Cubs in beating the Phillies 7-3. Passeau gave up four of the hits in the first inning, one of them a single by Joe Marty with the bases loaded. Marty also hit a homer in the seventh.

In the only game in the American League the Philadelphia Athletics again exercised their jinx over the pace-setter Detroit Tigers, getting a 9-7 verdict that shaved Detroit's lead over Cleveland to one game.

It was the tenth time in 17 contests the A's have tamed the Tigers, who are the only club in the league over which the last place A's hold the edge in a seasonal series.

Rookie Fred Hutchinson had Philadelphia checked without a run until the fifth yesterday, but then the A's broke loose for four rallies and in the seventh they clustered five more. Rudy York and Hank Greenberg accounted for five Detroit runs with two homers.

Phil's Mulcahy May Be Club's 20-Game Pitcher

Backed Up 11th Against Reds Last Week; Rixey and Alexander Had 33 and 22 Before

Philadelphia, July 30 (AP)—Hugh Mulcahy is not superstitious so he isn't "jinxing" the tall right-hander to say that he may be the first 20-game winner the Phillies have had in 24 years.

"Big Mul" won his 11th game against Cincinnati on Saturday and all hands from President Gertrude down agree he has an excellent chance of reaching the 20-game mark.

Since 1916 when Grover Cleveland Alexander won 33 games and Eppa Rixey 22 have the Phillies come up with a 20-game winning pitcher. The last time anyone came close was in 1934 when Curt Davis, now with Brooklyn, won 19 and lost 17.

N. L. Jinx May Stop Fast-Stepping Reds In September Drive

Bill McKechnie's Charges Remember 1939 When They Led by Eleven Full Games

Passing the midway mark in the 154-game schedule, the Cincinnati Reds held a 7-game lead over the second place Brooklyn Dodgers. All over the land, fandom was awarding the 1940 pennant to Deacon Bill McKechnie's boys. "Runaway" race was the verdict.

The Rhinelanders are undoubtedly a great ball club, one of the greatest ever. Their July bulge in the percentage table makes them strong favorites for the flag. Yet testimony of bygone National League races point a solemn lesson to other clubs that the race in the senior circuit isn't settled until September and not in July.

Last year at the end of July the Reds held an 11-game lead over the second place St. Louis Cardinals but on the morning of September 28 the Red Birds were only 2½ games behind, striving to nose out the McKechniemens in the season's last week.

Pirates Lose Cup

August 1, 1938, the Pittsburgh Pirates were 7½ games ahead of the Chicago Cubs. It was the Cubs who qualified for the world series when Leo "Gaby" Hartnett poked that homer when it was near dark. August 1, 1937, the Cubs were in front by six games over the New York Giants. The pennant payoff ended in Bill Terry's Polo Grounds.

Again in 1936, the day, August 1, the Cubs were out in front by a seven game margin. Once again Bill Terry's Giants came through in the clutch to win the pennant.

August 1, 1935, the Giants were leading the pack and Cubs by six games. The Wrigley Field representatives won the pennant.

August 1, 1934, the eventual pennant-winners, the Cardinals, stood 5½ games behind the leaders. These figures don't prove beyond contradiction that you've got to be half a dozen games behind first place on August 1 to win a National League crown. They don't prove that the Reds can't win the 1940 flag. Right now the Reds look unstoppable.

But the facts and figures all show that the "September Drive" is a time-honored perennial National League institution. The Reds won't slip up that flag in their basket without a good fierce fight between now and closing day.

Poison Oak May Keep Don McNeil From Tournament

Passed Up Seabright for Practice; Picked Up Poison While Among Trees on Course

Southampton, N. Y., July 30 (AP)—If Don McNeil weren't such a poor golfer, he might have been in the second round of the 50th annual Meadow Club invitation tournament today.

McNeil passed up the Sea Bright tournament last week because he had too much tennis. With so much leisure time he decided to see what could be done about his golf game. He spent many hours among the trees trying to recover from poor shots, and in the process he picked up a case of poison oak, which may force him to default play today.

A doctor who examined McNeil said that poison oak, while not serious, spreads rapidly, and that nothing would be known concerning Don's playing condition until today. Whether he plays or not, McNeil has already won the sincere appreciation of the tournament committee for appearing on the scene. Welby Van Horn, of Los Angeles, who looked the picture of health last week at Sea Bright, failed to show up at all, giving no reason for his absence, and was therefore summarily defaulted.

By way of adding to the official woes, Bobby Harman, of Berkeley, Cal., and Frank Froehling, of Chicago, provided a bit of innocent byplay centered around the question of who had won their match. Harman said he had triumphed in two sets, Froehling insisted he had taken one of those sets, and the dispute wasn't settled until they took the court again for a replay. Harman won. The favorites who saw action won as expected. Defending champion Bobby Riggs, of Chicago, nipped Ken Bartlett, of Los Angeles, 6-3, 9-7, and behind him such experts as Frank Kovacs, of Oakland, Cal., Gil Hunt, of Washington, D. C., Hank Prussoff, of Seattle, and Sidney Wood, of New York, all trooped into the second round.

Groundwork for Good Golf 1. Be Sure Your Grip Is Right

The grip is the key to sound golf. The hands, as the sensitive link between the clubhead and the body, give you the feeling of the clubhead. Golf is largely a game of feel and the hands are valuable in making the minor adjustments in timing that are almost constantly necessary. The near standardized grip is the combination palm and finger left hand position with the hand over the shaft so that two or three knuckles are visible. The shaft lies diagonally across the palm. Gripping pressure is emphasized by the two smallest fingers. The left is the holding hand and pressure is constant throughout the swing. The left thumb serves as a steady influence. The thumb is not fully extended, it is slightly buckled. To place the right hand, extend the fingers with the hand parallel with the face of the club—visualize hitting the ball with the right palm. When the hand is closed the club is gripped almost entirely in the fingers with the thumb lying toward the left side of the shaft. Greatest gripping pressure is applied with the first and third fingers, with the thumb steadying the club. The V's formed by the thumb and first finger of each hand point to the right shoulder. It will be helpful to have a professional check your grip.

Tom Tucker May Be Halted Tonight By Henry Cooper

Bout Will Be Staged in Hawkins Stadium; Both Ringmen Have Good Records So Far

The unimpeded march of Tommy Tucker, L. I., heavyweight, to the fistic heights, may suffer a severe jolt at Hawkins Stadium, Albany, tonight when he comes up against the flailing, thudding fists of the Brownsville "terror," Henry Cooper.

Their match is scheduled for 10 rounds—a main event on Tri-City Sports Club's fourth outdoor program—but in view of the expressed determination of each man to put a crimp in the other's career, an early termination of the fray is entirely probable.

Both men have laudable records well punctuated with knockout victories. Both, too, are out for a bigger game in their rank. And both realize that a victory tonight may hoist them into a position where they can demand a crack at Billy Conn.

So far as Conn is concerned, he is no stranger to Cooper who lost to the light heavyweight champion at Madison Square Garden last January in a 12-round bout with Conn coming through on a decision.

A return six-round bout between Joey Stack, Philadelphia, and Johnny Cockfield, New York, lightweights, the pro debut of the sensational Glens Falls amateur heavyweight, Art Ramsey, and the appearance of Jockey Jack Westope as manager for Ralph Revelli, are other highlights of the card.

Caruthersville, Mo., July 30 (AP)—John V. Sigmond, 30-year-old St. Louis butcher and athlete, claims a new long-distance record with successful completion Monday of a 292-mile swim down the Mississippi river.

Sigmond traveled from St. Louis to Caruthersville in 89 hours and 48 minutes—averaging more than three miles an hour—according to a check by Marvin Plake, Amateur Athletic Union representative.

The previously accepted marathon swimming record was 285 miles, set by Clarence Giles of Billings, Mont., last year in the Yellowstone river.

The swimmer's wife fed him from a cabin cruiser on the trip, his nourishment consisting principally of bouillon and chocolate bars.

Canadian Air Force Expanding Rapidly

Defense Minister Reports Two Divisions in England

Ottawa, July 30 (AP)—Reports of Canada's war ministries pictured the dominion today as rapidly expanding her air force, navy and militia for service at home or abroad.

The House of Commons awaited two further reports today—by Munitions Minister C. D. Howe and War Services Minister James G. Gardiner—to complete the activities reviewed by Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King's cabinet.

The prime minister, summing up the war effort in a statement to Commons last night, said that in addition to measures taken for the defense of Canada, "we have sent ships and troops and airmen to the West Indies, to Newfoundland, to Iceland and to Europe."

He withheld details although he promised to answer in secret any questions by members.

Defense Minister J. L. Ralston said Canada has an army corps of two divisions in England and that two additional divisions would be trained and equipped in Canada. He added that no additional units are to be sent overseas at present nor are additional militia units to be mobilized for the present into the active service force, which now numbers 133,000 men.

Recruiting for the non-permanent active militia will end August 15, he said, and thereafter 30,000 men will enter the militia on call each month for intensive training under the national resources mobilization act.

Roosevelt Predicts Safer Capital After Making Tour of Chesapeake Bay

Expects to Make Inspection of Other Army and Naval Bases; Anti-Aircraft Guns Demonstrated

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Washington, July 30 (AP)—President Roosevelt cruised up the Potomac river toward the capital today, convinced by a study of defense operations around Norfolk, Va., that Washington could "feel a whole lot safer" a year from now.

At the moment, the Chief Executive informed newspaper men, he feels that the success of an attempt to invade the capital, as the British did in the war of 1812, would "depend entirely on when it came and who it was" making the attack.

Mr. Roosevelt put in seven hours under a scorching sun yesterday looking over defense installations at the mouth of Chesapeake Bay, the water route to Washington. He said similar inspections of additional navy yards, army forts and air bases might be expected.

The statement emphasized a belief of many politicians that such visits might afford opportunity during the election campaign for expression of his views on defense and aligned problems.

The President rode through a half a dozen Virginia communities yesterday with a hand flung up in almost continuous greeting to crowds lining the streets. Persons who had accompanied him on his 1936 travels were reminded of inspections of drought and flood areas which the White House called "nonpolitical."

Yesterday's itinerary took Mr. Roosevelt on a circuit of the Norfolk Navy Yard, on which $50,000,000 has been spent for improvements since September to accelerate reconnoitering of old and construction of new vessels.

The big fleet operating base and naval air and training stations at Norfolk.

Fort Monroe, where batteries of seacoast artillery overlook Chesapeake Bay and anti-aircraft guns popped away at targets towed by planes.

The army air base at Langley Field, where 101 bombers and pursuit ships staged an aerial review in formation.

The Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company plant, which is building a battleship and an aircraft carrier and is going ahead with plans to construct seven more carriers and four light cruisers.

Appraising what he had seen, Mr. Roosevelt told reporters he had obtained a "good eye demonstration of what we have been doing for national defense since last summer."

In the last three years, he said, facilities and activities at Langley field have quadrupled. In a year he went on, work has increased approximately 50 per cent at the navy yard, navy base and the Newport News shipyard.

Describing his estimates as conservative, he added:

"This is just the beginning. We are going to see a lot more before we get through."

Employer Understanding Of Security Programs

As a result of an investigation conducted by the Kingston Field office of the Social Security Board, Charles E. Burke, manager, today announced that a number of claims for old-age and survivors insurance program have been delayed in settlement because of a misunderstanding by employers on the difference in coverage under the Federal insurance and state unemployment insurance programs. He urged employers to make certain that they understand the distinction between the two.

"These cases have occurred," Mr. Burke stated, "principally with the employer of one to three workers. He knows that the state unemployment insurance program applies to employers of four or more persons, and mistakenly assumes that the same coverage applies to the Federal program."

He should know that the Federal program applies to employers of one or more persons, if the employment is covered by the Social Security Act.

The delay in settlement of monthly claims can occur, Mr. Burke explained, where a claim is filed with his office, and upon transmittal to Washington, it develops that the claimant's employer has never filed a tax return in the belief that he had no liability.

This situation means delay through further investigation and filing of additional data, so that the claim cannot be adjudicated as promptly as it might be.

Mr. Burke emphasized that all matters involving tax liability under the Federal insurance program are handled by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, and suggested that employers who have any tax problems clear them with that agency. He also announced that a pamphlet, published jointly by the Social Security Board and the Bureau of Internal Revenue, which outlines the employer's duties under the Social Security Act, is available without charge at his office. The office is located at 203-206 Post Office Building, Kingston.

Doing Something About Weather For 100 Years

By EDDY GILMORE

Washington, July 30 (AP)—Contrary to what Mark Twain said about nobody doing anything about the weather, the patent office disclosed today that Americans have been doing something about it for almost 100 years.

Fans, for instance, have intrigued the country's inventors since the government began granting patents for perit ideas.

The hand-propelled fan is as old as the king who mopped his majestic brow and called to a vassal to stir up a parchment decree, but the files are full of gadgets to improve the original idea.

As early as 1865 a man figured out a way to harness a dog, throw him a bone and force his gnawing to motivate a machine to switch cooling breezes across his master's bed.

In 1881 a methodical milkman gazed on the smooth swinging of a cow's tail and figured out a way to make that power cool man.

The world, however, beat no path to either device.

Just before the World War a farmer perfected a ceiling fan that got its power from the windmill in the yard. He didn't explain what he wanted with a breeze when there was one strong enough to turn the mill.

Another man had almost the same idea, but he made it a little more practical—he hitched his fan to the churn on the back porch and put his wife to work.

The man-cooled room is more than 25 years old, but the first ideas were for insulated chambers around which the torrid homeowner packed ice.

There's even been an ice-cooled suit and an ice-cooled frock for Milady, but they didn't get very far, apparently because it was too much trouble and the bulk bucked style.

Feeling any cooler?

Advocates Grants For Migratory Workers in U. S.

New York, July 30 (AP)—Federal money grants to states to help finance re-settlement of destitute migratory workers was advocated today by Assemblyman James J. Wadsworth, of Genesee, N. Y., testifying before a special congressional committee investigating interstate migration.

Care of transients costs New York state approximately $3,000,000 annually, he said, adding, "this figure does not begin to cover the costs which we bear for the care of persons . . . who are in hospitals, institutions, and elsewhere."

"This is a national question," he asserted, "and the longer the states individually are expected to handle it, the more complicated and costly it will become, the more the rights of individuals will be jeopardized, and the more dangerous becomes the national situation."

Wadsworth expressed the opinion that the states should contribute about 25 per cent of the cost of rehabilitating transients in their jurisdiction.

Next to testify was Frank Goodhue, deputy commissioner of public welfare of Massachusetts who advocated amendment of the Social Security law to allow federal grants for general relief.

"Such action," he said, "together with necessary changes in state laws, would tend to prevent the amount of migration now evident."

Argentine Reservation On Foreign Possessions Is Clouding Solidarity

3 Thugs Take $108,000 Today At Asbury Park

Asbury Park, N. J., July 30 (AP)—Three men with shotguns robbed two bank messengers of $108,000 in front of the post office today in full view of scores of spectators. They escaped through the congested traffic of this shore resort's main thoroughfare in a dark sedan (Oldsmobile) bearing Pennsylvania license plates. The sedan took place at 9:50 a. m. (E. S. T.).

James Forsyth, vice president and cashier of the Asbury Park National Bank & Trust Company, estimated the loss and said it was covered by insurance. The money was consigned from the bank to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and was being taken to the post office.

Forsyth said the messengers, Clarence Barton and Joseph Sturm, were accosted by the three men as they stepped from their car in front of the post office building on Bangs avenue. Sturm was armed.

The robbers wore dark glasses.

about by the city of New York introducing 1,063 cubic feet of water per second in the Esopus creek at the Shandaken tunnel outlet and running it in the open creek to the Ashokan. This amount of flow the court holds in a memorandum to be a very small amount of the total flow of the creek which he finds is subject to extreme and sudden floods at times.

Henry R. Bright and Vincent G. Connelly appeared for the city and for confirmation while Senator Charles W. Walton appeared in opposition for Claimants Eugene Gormley, Frederick J. Minck, Edward J. Gormley, John M. Neal and others and Filomena Marcos while Edward F. Joyce, Jr., appeared for Alida Lane, Leopold Jesuit and Ethel Harlin.

In the Gormley claim damages to the total amount of $37,107 were testified to by claimant's witnesses who testified $5,500 were damages to the fee, exclusive of a quarry and mill site while $3,400 was for trespass damage. The quarry damage was placed at $4,000 and $22,857 for damage to the mill dam and $1,350 damage to the mill site generally. Of the gross sum $24,207 of the claimed damages arose from the mill site.

The commissioners allowed $1,850 for damages to the fee and $900 trespass damage.

Justice Bergan says, "I have concluded that this claim should be remitted to the commissioners for their further report in which the damage arising from which the two branches of the claim should be segregated." He holds that further testimony regarding damage to the dam may be taken but continues by saying that the introduction of the waters by New York city did not cause the dam to go over because it stood for two years after the city began to pour waters into the creek but that in 1926 a flood damaged the structure and rendered it unusable. Claimant is "certainly not entitled to the entire cost of a new dam" the court says.

Further the court says that because the city could not arrange with claimant to shut down the water during repairs, or because claimant could not finance the repairs while the city was using the Esopus, gave the claimant no right "to sit back and multiply his purported loss over a period of years, with no attempt at mitigation, on the basis of the cost of an entirely different dam or the theoretical cost of other forms of power which had not in fact been used."

The court held the claimant's damages would be such as were necessary to construction which would hold the additional waters sent in by New York city, and the additional cost of erecting a dam because of difficulties or delay caused by the additional water during construction and the reasonable value of the use of the dam during the period of such delay. This, however, assumed that construction be undertaken promptly after the flood which damaged the dam.

Among the other smaller claims confirmed were Parcel No. 35, Frederick J. Minck, $50 for trespass and $120 for damages; Edward J. Gormley, parcel 54-11, John M. Neal, parcel 54-a, $30 trespass and $85 damages; Alida Lane, parcel 88-a, $175 damages and $75 trespass; Ethel Harlin, parcel 87, $125; Leopold Jesuit, et al, parcel 85, $185.

On the last point the Latin Americans turned their eyes on Washington. They did so because the conference here decided the best means of rectifying the commercial dislocations caused by the European war and protecting the continent from possible encroachments of the Nazi barter system would be to expand the existing machinery for inter-American trade.

This entails broadening the scope and power of the inter-American economic and financial advisory committee with a permanent seat in Washington and stimulation of ratifications for an inter-American bank.

Most Latin American delegates believe therefore, as a result of the Havana conference, Washington may become their economic capital and they already are preparing to carry on their trade problems there.

Civil Service Commission Lists Talents of 700,000

Washington, July 30 (AP)—The Civil Service Commission is classifying about 700,000 government employees so that their special talents which may be required in the national defense program can be instantly available.

The task, nearly two years in preparation, is being pushed to completion.

All federal workers except about 300,000 in the post office field service have been asked to fill out a "personal information sheet."

The 23 questions which it covers concern age, physical condition, education, abilities, training, experiences, avocations and preferences.

Foreign Ministers Reach End of Conference on Hemisphere Economic, Political Defense

(By The Associated Press)

Havana, July 30—An Argentine reservation on the all-important question of foreign possessions in the new world clouded today the solidarity of the 21 American republics as their foreign ministers reached the end of their conference on hemisphere economic and political defense.

The unanimity rule of the conference, a Pan American tradition, technically was upheld as the delegates agreed one after another on the many defense matters, but Argentina at the last moment of last night's secret plenary session reserved the right of its government to pass finally on the merits of the act of Havana.

This act declared the deep concern of all American republics in the status of European possessions in this hemisphere and authorized American nations singly and jointly to assume temporary control of European colonies if deemed necessary to protect the continent.

Hence Argentina's 11th-hour reservation somewhat dampened the enthusiasm of some delegates who had predicted there would be no chink left in the armor of continental solidarity.

Some delegates, however, said they believed the Argentine action was, as the Argentines themselves expressed it, "academic." They gave the opinion that the conference had taken another step towards its objectives—to establish firmly a three-point basis of inter-American defense and collaboration.

With this encouragement in mind, Foreign Ministers Mauricio Nabuco of Brazil and Miguel A. Campa of Cuba touched up farewell speeches for delivery at today's final plenary session.

They chose as their theme mutual congratulation for bringing the Americas into these declarations.

1. That they would not tolerate the menace of a foreign foot on American soil nor of a change of flags over hemisphere colonies.

2. That they would collaborate against the dreaded "fifth column" even to the extent of challenging the "packing" of foreign embassies and legations and consulates with subversive elements.

3. That they would do their best to divert United States credits toward a solution of the surplus exports problems and attempt to develop hitherto neglected Latin American products of a non-competitive nature.

Canada Prepares For Vast Army

Will Train Million Men Between Ages of 21 and 45 for Service

Ottawa, July 30 (AP)—Considering the possibility of creating a Canadian army of 1,000,000, war services minister, James G. Gardiner, told the house of commons today every unmarried man in the Dominion between the ages of 21 and 45 might be compelled to undergo 30 days' military training.

"There is no reason," he said, "why Canada should not train an army of 1,000,000 men under this system and still operate her industry and primary production to meet demands upon it."

National registration is to be conducted August 19-21. Canada's 243 electoral districts will be the basis for the registration.

"It is possible," he said, "that requirements of the department of national defense will be satisfied by the calling up of single men from 21 to 35, and it may not have to go beyond that the first year."

Between the ages of 18 and 44, he said, Canada has 1,198,000 unmarried men.

All employers will be required, under penalty, to re-employ any drafted employee at the end of his training.

Munitions Minister C. D. Howe told the house that Canadian airplane factories were expected to produce warplanes at the rate of 360 per month by 1941, and tanks at the rate of 30 monthly as soon as plant equipment is completed. He outlined plans for rifle and artillery plants, and for a naval artillery factory costing $10,000,000 which he said would be the largest and most modern in the British empire.
